DBV Guide to Good Practice for Industrial Floors

The updated guide to good practice "Industrieböden aus Beton (Industrial Concrete Floors)" by the Deutscher Beton- und Bautechnik-Verein (DBV) (German association for concrete and construction technology) gives advice on how halls and open areas, serving for the production and stock goods handling, should be constructed and structured. It is supposed to provide guidance to everyone involved in the construction, in order to plan and implement industrial floors in a way which fulfils the builder owners' or users' requirements within the scope of technical feasibility and economic efficiency.
